Still Time For Businesses to Order Fresh Daffodils

Hamilton businesses still have time to place their order for bunches of fresh daffodils.

The bunches are sold on behalf of the Cancer Society as part of the Daffodil Day fundraising campaign.

Jo Bell, Daffodil Day spokesperson, says local businesses have once again been very generous in their support of the campaign.

The daffodils are delivered week of Daffodil Day which is celebrated on Friday 31st August.

“Everyone loves having the daffodils brightening up their office – they are a wonderful reminder that spring is on its way.”

Students from the New Zealand Management Academy have this week been contacting Hamilton businesses on behalf of the Cancer Society.

Jo says any businesses that haven't been contacted and still want to place their order should contact the Cancer Society office on 838 2027.

Each bunch contains 30 daffodils for a $30 donation.

“Daffodil Day is our major fundraising day but of equal importance it is a time for raising awareness of cancer and all that the Cancer Society does in the community.

The Cancer Society receives no direct government funding and is entirely reliant on fundraising, with Daffodil Day being the main national appeal day.

More

Jo says all the funds raised locally are used to provide services and support within the local community.
